The First State

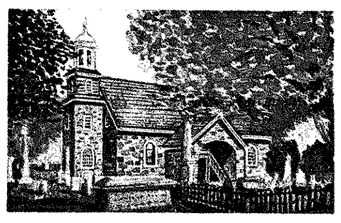
DELAWARE

This special Bicentennial souvenir is presented to you with our compliments. Nearly three-and-a-half centuries of history are symbolized in the First State-Four Flags emblem. The orange, white, and blue tricolor of the Dutch West India Company flew over the fort at Zwaanendael, an ill-fated colony established in 1631 in what is now the Town of Lewes. Seven years later the Swedish National Ensign flew on the mast of the Kalmar Nyckel, bringing the first Swedish settlers to the New World. They landed near "the rocks" in what is now Wilmington, and built the first permanent colony in Delaware. The Dutch, with colonies in New York and further north on the Delaware River, built Ft. Casimir a few miles south of the Swedish settlement in 1651. Conflict arose between them with the Swedes occupying Ft. Casimir for a time. The question of whether the Swedes or the Dutch would ultimately control the land along the Delaware River and Bay ceased with the arrival of English men-of-war under Sir Robert Carr in 1664. The Union Jack of Great Britain was firmly planted in the soil of Delaware and flew from the Court House until June 15, 1776 when the Three Lower Counties on Delaware, as the colony was called, voted to sever ties with Great Britain and became one of the thirteen colonies to merge as the United States of America and pledged allegiance to the thirteen star banner which became known as the Betsy Ross Flag. On December 7, 1787, Delaware became the first of the states to ratify the new Federal Constitution and thus earned the name "The First State".

The antique map was drawn by a German cartographer in 1797 and shows Delaware as it existed in the early days of the Country. The main route from Lewes to New Castle was most likely the road known in those days as the Kings Highway and the only major link between the communities of this sparsely settled land. The map was provided through the courtesy of the University of Delaware Morris Library.

The water colors of Delaware attractions, yesterday and today, were especially created for this Bicentennial map by the noted Wilmington artist, Vernon L. Good, and represent just a few of the many attractions in Delaware which will make your visit a pleasant and enjoyable experience.

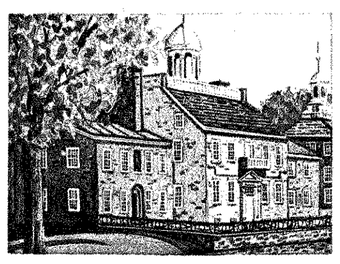
A Bicentennial Adventure



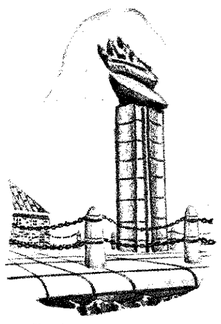
Old Swedes Church

Wilmington

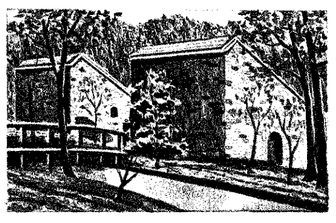
Old Dutch House



Old Court House



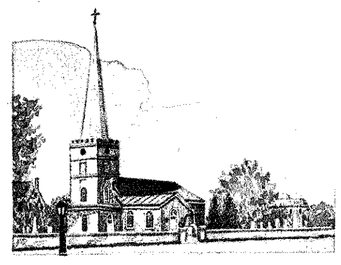
Ft. Christina Monument



Hagley Museum

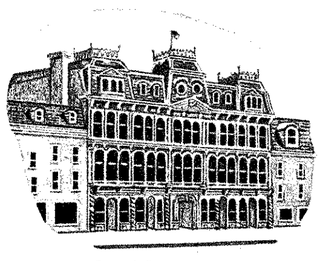
Centered around Wilmington are several historic landmarks and world famous museums. The Henry Francis duPont Winterthur Museum has the nation's finest collection of American furnishings and furniture. Hagley Museum, the Delaware Museum of Natural History and the Magic Age of Steam offer unique collections. Downtown is the newly restored Grand Opera House, Delaware's official center for the performing arts, and Old Town Hall (built circa 1790) which served as the county courthouse. Ft. Christina Historic Park and Old Swedes Church remain as part of the State's Swedish heritage. The Delaware Art Museum contains a collection of Wyeth family paintings and works of other artists.

New Castle

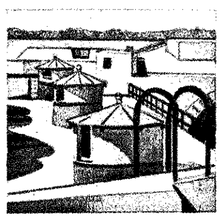


Immanuel Episcopal Church

The oldest town in the Delaware Valley, the three block historic section of New Castle reflects the changes in architecture from the 1600s through the Victorian era. Public buildings include the Old Dutch House Museum, Immanuel Episcopal Church (1703), Presbyterian Church (1707), the Old Court House and colonial capitol (1732) and the Amstel House Museum where Washington danced at a wedding party and "stood on the hearth and kissed the girls as was his wont". The Read House, now in the possession of the Delaware Historical Society, was built by George Read, Jr., the son of a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

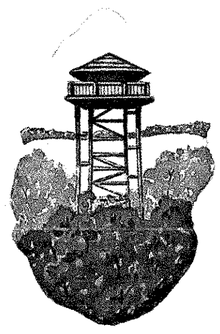


Grand Opera House



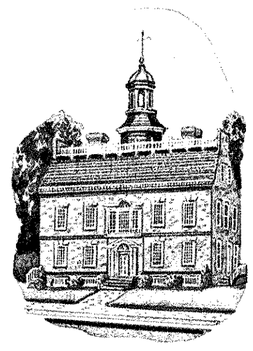
Ft. Delaware State Park

Welsh Tract Church



Iron Hill Bicentennial Recreation Area

John Dickinson Mansion



Old State House

Just south of Newark lies some of Delaware's most historic land. The Battle of Cooch's Bridge was fought here in September, 1777. Washington's Lookout, where General Washington, General Nathaniel Green and the Marquis de Lafayette observed British troops landing in Maryland, is now a part of New Castle County's Iron Hill Bicentennial Recreation area. An observation tower near the Lookout provides a breathtaking view of four states and the route of British and American forces from Elkton, Maryland to the Brandywine. Also visit Solar One, the sunpowered house of tomorrow, the University of Delaware and the Battle of Cooch's Bridge Monument.

Newark

Cooch's Bridge Battle Monument

Octagonal School

Dover

Sailing on Rehoboth Bay

St. Georges Chapel

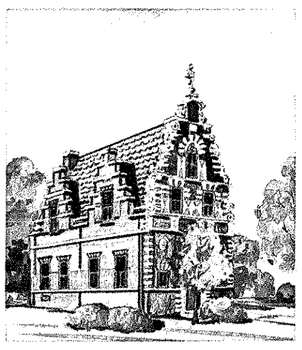
Delaware's capital since 1777, Dover was ordered laid out in 1683 by William Penn. The final site was chosen by an Act of the General Assembly in 1717. Caesar Rodney, Delaware's Revolutionary War hero, lived here. So did John Dickinson, the "Penman of the Revolution"; his home is open daily. Also visit the Delaware State Museum, Octagonal School, the Hall of Records, where the original patents granting Delaware to the Duke of York are displayed.

Collins Country Storehouse

Sussex County - Atlantic Shore

Rehoboth Beach

Lightship "Overfalls"



Zwaanendael Museum

State parks and seaside communities along the Atlantic offer a paradise for photo buffs, sun worshippers and outdoor lovers. Historic buildings and landmarks in Sussex County include Old Christ Church, Broad Creek and St. Georges Chapel in Dagsboro. Lewes offers an historic complex of colonial houses, the Marine Museum and the lightship "Overfalls", plus the state owned Zwaanendael Museum. There are many public and private recreation vehicle campgrounds throughout Sussex County.

WELCOME TO THE FIRST STATE

This special Bicentennial Edition of our Delaware Highway Map is our way of sharing with you a portion of the cultural heritage given us in trust by our forebearers. Ours is a compact state, rich in history, rich in unspoiled natural beauty, and rich in the character of its people.

Hundreds of Delawareans are working on many projects. They are restoring and improving facilities in our historic buildings, planning festivals and organizing programs for all to enjoy. On their behalf, I cordially invite you to join us and help us celebrate the 200th Birthday of America.

Welcome to Delaware—the First State!

Sincerely,

Sherman W. Tribbitt
Governor of Delaware
